

●●● What's up ?

The European Youth Forum has now launched the official Youth Convention website at: www.youth-convention.net

The website is available in English, French and German and is divided into 4 sections :

- Information about the event itself : aims, a list of the participants, working papers, and a document on the working methods,
- The context,
- A press room : information for the media,
- A meeting room : practical information and a discussion forum.

●●● Bye-bye Sue... ●●●

In the name of all the SALTO-YOUTH centres, we would like to sincerely thank Sue Kingsley-Smith for everything she has done to the setting-up of the new resource centres of the YOUTH programme. After 17 years at Connect-Youth-International, she has decided to do something else. We will miss her competences, her attention, her kindness. All the best to Sue.

●●● A Focus on Human Rights

Human rights school network

Non-formal input to be used in global projects, within the formal educational system. This publication summarises philosophy and concepts of the networking projects, the pedagogical process and gives some clear examples of activities. Language : English

The European convention on Human Rights -starting points for teachers-

A very interesting document in which we can find a clear and short overview with information about what Human Rights mean, what the legal basis are... The activities proposed can be used in training sessions, youth exchanges... Rich selection of documents, videos and Internet sites. Languages : English and French

Europe Youth / Human rights

This report of the "Human Rights Week" brings together valuable lectures from distinguished speakers and workshops reports on different subjects such as : Minority women, Political decision making and Participation, Nationalism... The list of contacts is resourceful. A basic tool on the importance of Human Rights education.

Language : English

"Droit de Regard"

With regional, national and European funds, the cultural centre of Bradant Wallon has created a CD-Rom with young people. The input on the issues of human rights is slightly light. Nevertheless, the quality of the result is impressive, and the structure well built. Language French

●●● Videos on EVS and action 3

"Enter a very surprising journey

Granted on an Action 3, this video relates the experience of six European volunteers who lived and worked together in the Netherlands for eight months on an EVS pilot project. This video is very useful to describe the personal experience of each volunteer, their feelings (funny and boring moments...), their efforts to accept and discover the others...

Very good example of what can be done with high quality and little money.

De Open Poort : Hollantilainen välipala

"The aim of my film was to show the everyday life of an EVS volunteer and how the youngsters experience living and working abroad". An experience we can share from the inside, financed on a "Future capital".

This document helps to be aware of the different conceptions of non-formal education and the opportunities of lifelong learning.
