

More information about the Co-Memo-S movies

We created five educational videos that explore different ecological crisis: climate change, air pollution, water pollution, greenhouse gas emissions, and ecosystem exploitation. The videos highlight the value of local and marginalized knowledge, giving voice to both young and elderly people in framing the challenges and solutions.

The movies are created for youth workers and young people and are created in cooperation with youth, seniors and youth workers.

The videos feature diverse viewpoints about the ecological crisis and could be used by youth workers in different training situations or for initiating discussions on the topics.

Some screens from the movies:

