

For the past 20 years I have been involved in the development and coordination of projects encompassing organising large-scale events, training courses, coaching, and recognition on non-formal education, among others. Today and while working on my personal development I orientate myself towards inspirational leadership and communication, as well as neuro-cognitive behaviours in coaching. Besides, I continue my work as freelance trainer and learning facilitator with a specific focus on competence frameworks and development and quality. I also moderate and facilitate events such as conferences, seminars, and symposium.
