To celebrate the conclusion of two successful international educational programmes, the British Red Cross will be hosting a three day conference on migration and conflict. Come explore with us and our partners our creative approaches to working with young people on these issues.

The conference will be of interest to education practitioners, organisations active in the fields of migration and conflict as well as Red Cross National Societies.

How can you be involved?

Day 1 – Justice and Fairness competition final.

See the young UK finalists of the Justice and Fairness competition present their humanitarian action projects to a panel of expert judges.

Day 2 – Learning together.

Enable young people to make sense of migration and conflict. Hear stories from experts in the field, and participate in discussions and activities. The day will be of interest to teachers, education practitioners and organisations in the field of migration and conflict.

Day 3 – Sharing together.

Come celebrate with us the successes of the Positive Images and Justice and Fairness programmes. Participate in workshops and be inspired by our work across Europe. Explore opportunities for working together. The day will be of particular interest to Red Cross National Societies.
