

TALENT WEEK

bringing strengths & passion together!

Utrecht
June
25-29

THE PROGRAM

The aim of Talent Week is to discover what it means for you to be 'in your element'. We'll spend time discovering each of the four components of the element; strengths, passion, attitude and opportunity. On the fifth day we'll conclude the program with a one-day Talent Festival. This will be an informal, versatile event for around 150 people with expositions, workshops and entertainment. Part of the week will be spent preparing for this festival, using what you have learned about your strengths, passion & attitude! We'll start each day with a shared breakfast. During the day there will be different sessions to attend and time to work on your own ideas for the festival.

FINDING YOUR ELEMENT

The element is described as the point at which natural talent meets personal passion. When people are in their element, they feel most themselves, happy and inspired. They also achieve their highest performance level. The element consists of four components: strengths, passion, attitude and opportunity. A strength is a natural facility for something or in other words; a talent. A passion is something that you love to do. Your attitude is your own perspective on yourself and your circumstances. The last component is opportunity, which means that whether or not we'll be in our element depends on the opportunities we have or create. You can find your element by exploring and combining the four components. The result will be different for everyone, as we all have our own way of being in our element.

THE ORGANIZERS

Talent Week is a collaboration of Take a Step & Kessels & Smit, The Learning Company. Together we organise courses, workshops & other activities to help (young) people to discover their strengths and build systems and organizations that bring out the best in people.
