

Call for participants to the expert seminar

Time to show off!

Guiding learning processes linked to life competences in youth mobilities

The National Agencies of Hungary, Slovakia, the Netherlands and the Salto Training & Cooperation Resource Centre (SALTO T&C RC) are inviting interested candidates to apply for an expert meeting from 01-05 April 2016 in Glind (NL).

The expert meeting Time to show off! is part of a long term project with the following three activities which are connected:

- Expert meeting, spring 2016
- Training for youth workers, autumn 2016
- Seminar for stakeholders, spring 2017

The aim and objectives of the first activity of the expert meeting are:

To get an understanding and collect examples of quality support of the learning processes in international youth mobilities and to identify how learning outcomes can be meaningfully expressed as life competences.

Objectives:

- Discover and discuss successful learning experiences and support processes in youth mobilities;
- To get an insight in the learning throughout the whole process of the learning mobility and understand how youth workers can encourage and empower young people to identify learning goals and learning outcomes;
- Unlock / reveal hidden competences gained in learning mobilities and collecting evidence to recognize them;
- Reflect and recognize the learning outcomes in relation to a desired future reality of a young person;
- To discuss how international youth work can contribute to personal development and employability of young people and develop recommendation for the further process;
- To support young people and youth workers to 'translate' learning outcomes into life competences, including employability competences.

The project is cooperation between the National Agencies of Hungary, Slovakia, the Netherlands and the SALTO T&C RC.

The aim of the long term project is to create a systematic change in the support of youth workers, working in international learning mobilities by better equipping them to identify and support individual learning processes of participants and transform and translate the outcome into life competences, among them employability competences.

The first step in the long term project is the expert meeting for 'experts'; youngsters and youth workers who successfully participated in an international youth mobility project and are aware that they have learned during the activity.

We are looking for 10 couples who are willing to share and explore the learning process.

The project will start with an expert meeting for experienced youth workers and former YIA / Erasmus+ Youth participants (in the best case in a tandem), which consider their mobility experience as a life changing one.

The expert meeting will be held in De Glind, the Netherlands from April 1 until April 5 2016.

If you are interested to apply with one of your participants or with your youth worker please apply online with the use of the application form.

Please note that this is a tandem application – one youth worker plus one young person. If you need further explanation please contact one of the organisers.
