“Sperimental Anti-Violence”:

Audio-visual Arts to Contrast Violence Against Youth

Physical violence, bullying, cyberbullying, gender-based violence, indifference, invisibility and isolation, all types of violence which touch youth, and with greater force during this hard pandemic times. But what if instead of looking at it from a negative perspective, we get together a group of young people, their creative minds, art and a video camera and we approached it from a positive perspective? This is what a group of Italian young people did: contrast violence through experimental videomaking.

If you want to know how to implement this innovative methodology, see their video productions or even share your own video productions against violence with an international audience, join us at the Online Final Exhibition “Experimental Anti-Violence” (the Exhibition will be held in Italian)

*The participant who, at the end of the event, will have shared the most powerful video in terms of awareness raising, will receive a REC T-shirt (Italian residents only) and have his/her video published on our international project website <http://rec-project.eu/>.
