WHY?

Expressing one's own challenges and feelings is very hard for youth. The inability to express is often among the causes of youth marginalisation, aggravating a condition of helplessness and lack of self-confidence and worthiness.

Individual empowerment is a process of restoring people's lost confidence, where the transition from having no voice to express oneself in front of someone leads to both a physical and a mental change. Whereas isolation is paralysis and silence, social belonging connects with upright bearing and action.

AIM & OBJECTIVES

This training aims to offer a platform where to tackle the issue of youth marginalisation while developing and understanding the principles of meaningful expression and active listening skills based on an awareness of youth work principles and practice, and to explore the opportunities Erasmus+ offers to apply these competences.

The training will be realised using a range of experiential learning opportunities, non-formal educational approaches and a wealth of youth work theory and practice to actively engage and develop the skills of the participants.

The objectives of the project are therefore as follows:

- to explore the concept of "transformational storytelling", how to use storytelling as tool for innovation to change and self-development;
- to understand how storytelling, playback theatre and stand up comedy skills can be used as creative methods to let youth express and address their marginalisation;
- to develop an action plan for participants to engage their youth in their organisation's context as well as the regional and European level;
- to implement the lessons learned and action plans in the partner organisations and virtually share and evaluate the activities organised.
