About the MiCREATE project

The overall objective of the project was to stimulate the inclusion of diverse groups of migrant children by adopting a child-centred approach to migrant children's integration on the educational and policy levels. Stemming from the need to revisit the existing integration policies, the research project aimed at a comprehensive examination of the contemporary integration processes of migrant children in order to empower them.

The MiCREATE research team has conducted research activities with newly arrived, long-term migrant and local children in Slovenia, Denmark, Spain, the United Kingdom, Austria and Poland. In the multi-method research that lasted from September 2019 to September 2021 more than 6,000 children were involved.

Especially now, teachers and policy-makers face significant challenges in integrating migrant children into local communities and schools, because of a lack of effective materials and quality information.

About the CONFERENCE

With this conference, we would like to share the key outcomes of our project outside of the project countries. We believe, that these outcomes may become a valuable tool in the hands of teachers, local policy-makers, and representatives of various organisations and institutions united around the topic of migrant children's integration.

The outcomes of the project cover (among others):

- summary of key outcomes of the research
- tools for inclusive education:
 - Handbook for teachers (incl. good practices, indicators)
 - 2 Digital tools: Digital storytelling application & Awareness-raising tool
- policy recommendations and national/European policy briefs

PARTICIPANTS

We invite all participants interested in learning about practices, tools, policy-recommendations in the area of migrant-children's integration, especially:

- teachers, educators, youth workers working with migrant children
- policy-makers, municipality officers responsible for migrant integration
- researchers in the field of migrant children integration
- representatives of NGOs and Institutions interested in new tools and arguments for discussion about migrant children's integration in their countries

The conference takes place online, 11:00-14:30 CET, 22nd June.
