Expression

March 2025
Kalamata, Greece

Description:

“R.I.S.E.” is a transformative training course designed by Koukouva SCE to equip youth workers with the tools needed to foster respect, acceptance, and solidarity within their communities.

Set in the vibrant city of Kalamata, Greece, this project leverages the unique power of performative arts—dance, performance, and theater—to explore and promote inclusion.

By using these art forms, which transcend cultural and linguistic barriers, participants can connect on a deeper level, fostering understanding and empathy through creative expression.

Performative arts encourage collaboration, emotional expression, and creativity, making them an ideal medium for building inclusive communities where everyone feels valued. This project emphasizes the importance of embracing diversity and cultivating a sense of belonging for all.

By the end of the program, participants will have not only enhanced their artistic skills but also strengthened their commitment to inclusion, ready to inspire and support young people in creating a more united and compassionate world.

Main objectives

- Develop Inclusive Practices: Equip youth workers with innovative methods and non-formal education tools that promote inclusion, respect, and acceptance in diverse communities.
- Enhance Artistic Skills: Provide youth workers with hands-on experience in performative arts—dance, performance, and theater—as powerful tools for fostering empathy, collaboration, and communication.
- Empower Leadership: Strengthen the leadership and facilitation skills of youth workers, empowering them to guide inclusive activities and initiatives within their communities.
- Create Sustainable Impact: Equip youth workers with the ability to design and implement sustainable inclusion projects, ensuring long-term benefits for the youth they engage with.
- Network Building: Facilitate connections among youth workers from diverse backgrounds, fostering collaborations, sharing best practices, and developing a united front to address the challenges of tomorrow.
- Hands-on Experience: Provide practical sessions where participants can apply their learning, ensuring they leave with actionable skills and strategies to implement in their communities.

Target group

Youth workers, educators, and facilitators who are actively involved in youth work and community-building initiatives or are interested to do so in the future. These individuals should have a keen interest in using creative methods to promote inclusion and solidarity within their local communities. The project particularly welcomes participants from diverse cultural and professional backgrounds, as their varied perspectives will enrich the collaborative learning experience.
