Who We Are?

ETKI, which takes its group and working dynamic from the energy and future-oriented ideas of the youth, is a youth association founded under leaders who has more than 10 years of experience in the field of youth, aiming to operate in the fields of education, technology, participation and climate.

The basic principle of our association is to approach these four fields, which need to be contributed more in both national and international context, from the perspective of young people who are the guarantee of today and the future.

We aim to enable young people to participate in working life and to develop their social skills in an increasingly individualized social order, with the non-formal education methods developed outside of formal education, by adding education, which is the primary need in raising young people who have a word to say to the world and who can approach life and humanity's problems sensitively, into our fields of activity.

Technology, which is our second field of activity, is a field that we have determined to embrace the change and development processes of humanity, which entered the twenty-first century with a great technological breakthrough. We are planning to carry out studies to help young people be prepared for the increasingly digitalized world and the lifestyle it will bring, to get to know this world and to reveal their potential in the field of technology.

Participation, which is another topic of ours, draws attention to the need to keep the social relations of people who have lived with the sense of solidarity they need throughout history and aims to ensure that young people who will firmly weave social ties and transfer them to the next generations, can find a place for themselves in every platform.

Our last field of work, climate, aims to carry out research and development activities to shape our unique world with green technologies that aim to make it livable for all living things, by freeing it from the exploitation, corporate interests.

Our main objectives

- ✓ Increasing efficiency in youth work
- ✓ Carrying out activities for the participation of youth in democratic life
- ✓ Providing young people's own projects, ideas and contributions on climate change and global warming, conducting research and development and social awareness activities
- ✓ Ensuring the correct use and dissemination of digital learning tools among young people and ensuring their contribution to new laws and practices in this regard.
- ✓ Carrying out inclusion activities for disadvantaged and disadvantaged youth to participate in social and cultural life.
- ✓ Strengthening young people's communication skills and "soft-skills" such as time and crisis management that will benefit their careers.
