PROJECT AIMS

We have a privilege to live in 21st century, when young people have access to all kind of information, that they get from different sources such as internet (social networks, websites, educational resources etc.), Media (TV, radio, newspapers, online resources etc.), direct communication and through many other ways. All this creates informational environment where we all live.

In addition, no doubt this environment affects the young people, the way they think, the way that they see this world and how they judge political, economic and cultural situation. There are so many terrible things happening in the world: terroristic attacks and threats in France, Belgium, Russia; War in Ukraine, Syria, Iraq that caused a huge refugee and migration wave in Europe. These and many other factors stipulate increasing of intolerance, xenophobia, violence, conflicts oriented by cultural fears, numerous stereotypes and prejudices, intercultural misunderstanding, inability to think critically and lack of intercultural competence in general. Despite the fact that there are many projects aiming developing intercultural competence, there is still a need to work more on those issues in order to reduce the level of xenophobia and hate in the society widely spread thanks to the Media contribution.

Xenophobia and intercultural incompetence are the common problems for East and West; Thousands of people are suffering because of it, and what is dangerous, that also thousands do not see them as a problem. It is becoming clear that in order to build communities that are successful at improving conditions and resolving problems, we need to understand and appreciate many cultures, establish relationships with people from cultures other than our own, and build strong alliances with different cultural groups. In order to solve the mentioned problems and to meet the further challenges we have to educate our youngsters using nonformal education and to give them information and space about and for intercultural dialogue.

The main objectives of project are:

To increase the level of cultural sensitivity of youngsters through diversity appreciation, direct communication and exchange, building trust with different people and developing the ability to think critically, to assess honestly personal behavior towards other people and cultures

To break stereotypes and prejudices about the different cultures by enhancing the awareness of young people about intercultural communication

To eliminate cultural misunderstanding and miscommunication by giving youngster a space for intercultural dialogue and communication

To improve the cultural competences of young people by reflecting on personal identity

To create more friendly and safe environment full of respect, tolerance, mutual cultural understanding

To build networks of international contacts in order to participate actively in the society and to develop sense of European citizenship and identity

To create opportunities for young people to learn how to learn and how to reach to the personal and professional development through nonformal education
