

1. Project Summary

DYPALL is a project currently involving 22 European partners, youth organizations and municipalities from 17 countries, that aims to involve young people in the decision-making process, which will enable municipalities and regional authorities to address the needs and interests of youth, at the same time that will contribute to engage youth as an active actors of the solutions for their problems, increasing the level of ownership, commitment and involvement an important part of our communities that is being neglected on this level.

DYPALL stands for the creation of effective and sustainable involvement of youth on decision-making with and in cooperation with local authorities through the development of strategies, the building of structures and relations of trust and between actors. The project demands the development of knowledge, sharing of experiences and tools to create and to develop further these spaces of shared decision-making.

2. Background of DYPALL Network

Since 2011 Cooperative ECOS and their international partners have dedicated efforts in fostering the potential of young people to be active citizens and actors of real social change in their local communities, as well as in their regional and international realities. In the wide range of implemented activities, there were a diversity of projects where we have involved and strengthen the work of a network of municipalities and youth workers. These experiences strengthened our belief that it is crucial to develop a new culture of youth participation, especially when in regard to decision-making processes on issues of direct concern and interest of youth. It is essential to look at youth as a forceful and creative source of solutions for our societies that can largely contribute for their development.

We believe that creating and effective and sustainable involvement of youth on decision-making with and in cooperation with local authorities' demands willingness and commitment from both parts, but also the development of knowledge, sharing of experiences and tools to create and to develop further these spaces of shared decision-making. This demands the development of strategies, building of structures and relations of trust and cooperation between actors.

Fortunately, we can already find few but still a diverse range of practices across Europe in terms having young people directly involve in decision-making at local and regional level, where strong bonds and cooperation are boosting the involvement and participation of youth and youth organisations in representative democracy structures and in their local communities. However, we still miss in general a deeper reflection and a space for the development of competences of the youth workers, youth leaders, local authorities' officials and other people involved in developing and supporting structures to enhance youth participation at the local level.

3. Informal European Network

The partners of this project sharing this common need decided to build an informal network of youth organizations and local municipalities to jointly increase the number and quality of structures and instruments where youth can work with local authorities in the development of local youth policies and strategies for the development of their communities.

The network will increase the opportunities of members to develop youth participation by pooling experiences and exchanging good practices, with the support of ECOS who will coordinate the network during the first 3 years and implement joint activities where members will learn, discuss and find new ways to involve young people to actively participate and contribute to local policies development in their communities.

Members will have a space to reflect on the extent to which youth is actually involved in shaping their society and in contributing to democratic processes; they will work on the need to develop policies that create the conditions for youth participation to become real and effective and to bring actual change to the life of young people and to society as a whole.

4. Objectives of DYPALL Network

In order to realize this ambitious and challenging project the project partners defined the following objectives:

1. To identify and to promote structures and mechanisms for youth participation in decision-making and debate about their potential and challenges on public governance;
2. To develop more inclusive approaches to foster the participation of young people with fewer opportunities into spaces such as local youth councils and youth fora;
3. To develop the capacity of their members on issues such as advocacy, policy making, partnership, participative and representative democracy;
4. To allow youth organizations and municipalities to share their best practices in terms of cooperation between local authorities and civil society;
5. To support the development and implementation of Youth Guarantee schemes at local and regional level in coordination with all relevant stakeholders;
6. To develop the governance model that will allow a sustainable growth of the network.

5. Project Stages and Activities

The project will have the duration of 3 years (2015-17) and will provide an unique opportunity to mainstream youth policy development at local level. Nevertheless represents a challenge that implies the need of commitment from all the partners, their involvement in developing and strengthening the overall project and the sharing of a wide range of experiences, needs, expectations, suggestions and recommendations regarding to the project. In this line, the project is aligned with participatory methodologies, aiming to allow that the project is designed and implemented together with all the partners.

The project is organized in 3 different phases: preparatory phase, implementation, evaluation & follow-up. The implementation phase is divided in 4 main pillars.

6. Who we are – Coordinating Organization

ECOS –Cooperativa de Educação, Cooperação e Desenvolvimento, is an organization run by professional youth workers and educators active on the development of youth programmes and Structure Dialogue on local, national and European level. ECOS works mainly on the promotion of non-formal education, social inclusion and youth participation, particularly by supporting the development of local, regional and international projects that aim to enhance youth engagement in the decision making process of their communities and democratic institutions.

Through our activities, we try to contribute to the development of a more human, sustainable, fair, inclusive, participative, democratic, equitable, solidary, cooperative, dialogical, diverse and integrated society.

Our Mission is to contribute to the development, nurturing learning, the construction of trust bonds and fruitful alliances among social actors, entrepreneurs and institutions (through dialogue and cooperation) and articulating agendas of action.

Our scope of intervention is on the following axes:

1. Creation of spaces for structured dialogue, cooperation and collective construction among diverse social, business and institutional actors;
2. Promotion, design, implementation and evaluation of playful, educational, social, cultural and sustainable development projects, in formal and non-formal spaces, through non-formal education, always in a way that it complements formal education and contributes to lifelong learning;
3. Development of organizations capacity to do a more efficient management of their resources and projects through training and new technologies of information and communication;
4. Monitoring, support, assessment and consultancy to individuals, organizations, institutions and respective educational programmes and social intervention projects;
5. Promotion, recognition and validation of non-formal education and other alternative pedagogical methodologies that contribute to social transformation.
