

Maghweb is a dynamic addition to the increasingly Sicilian non-profit sector. Based in the heart of Palermo, we aim to provide local organisations with communication expertise that is tailored to the specific needs of the third sector. As a team, we have extensive experience in the field of journalism, videomaking, documentaries, environmental education and eco-friendly sustainability. The objective of our association is to improve the efficiency and visibility of activities related to social integration and international cooperation through the efficient use of communication.
