What are we planning?

... a group volunteering activity.

We are organising a group volunteering activity aimed at preservation and interpretation of endangered miners' heritage in Idrija, Slovenia.

In a 3-week volunteering activity we will focus on selected examples of traditional Idrija stone & wood miners' houses that will serve as a lab for learning new skills.

Combining youth work with cultural heritage.

Exploring UNESCO heritage!

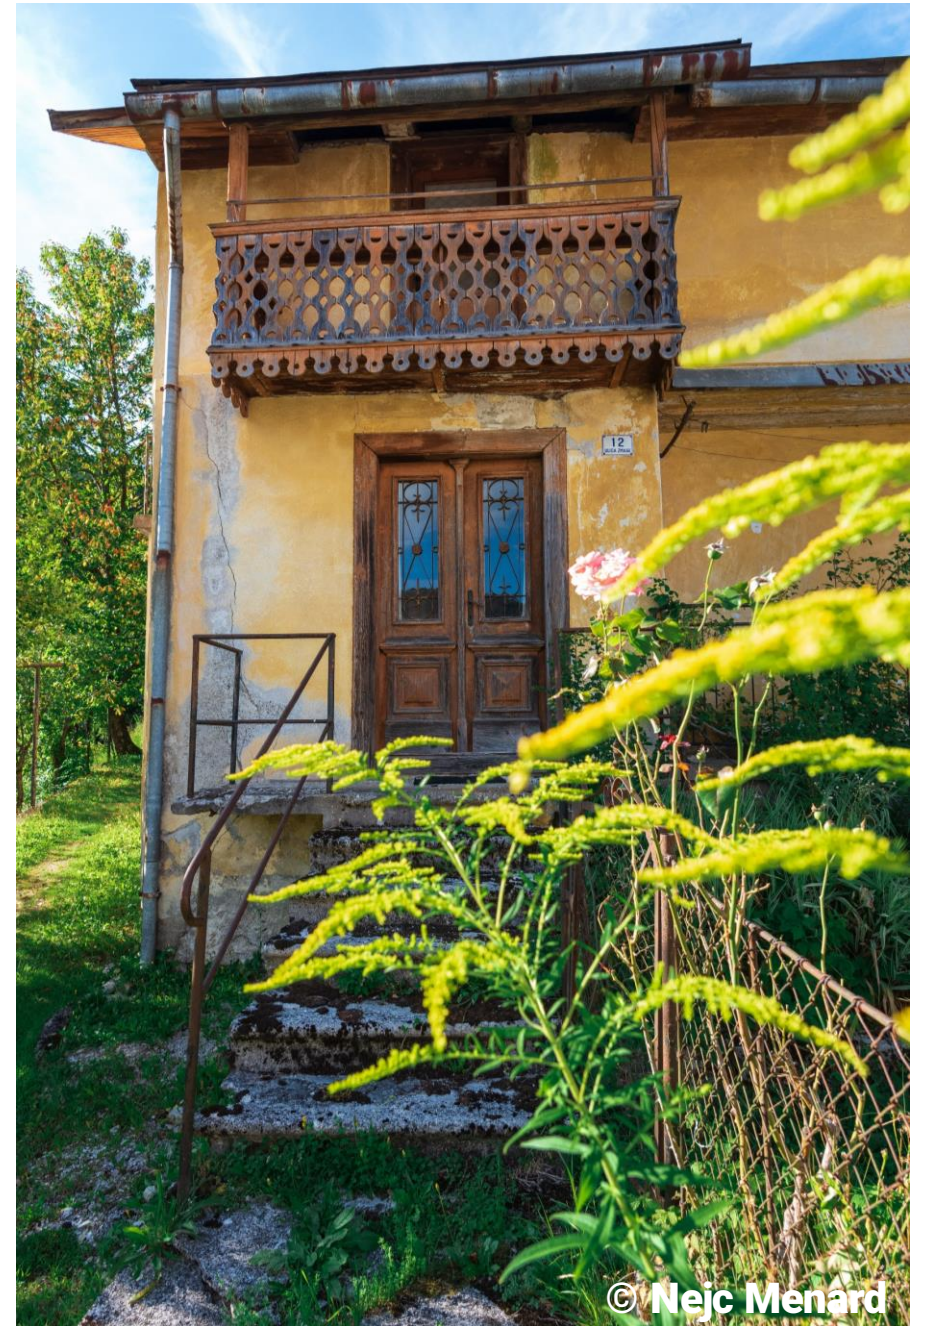

Making heritage digital!

Sharing the knowledge!

Hands on approach to heritage protection!

Where will the activity take place?

... Idrija, Slovenia.

The ESC volunteering activity will take place in Idrija – a former mining town that is today inscribed to UNESCO World Heritage List.

The town has a population around 6.000 and is located halfway between Slovenia's capital Ljubljana, and Nova Gorica on the Italian border.

Location of Idrija within Slovenia.

Who is organising the activity?

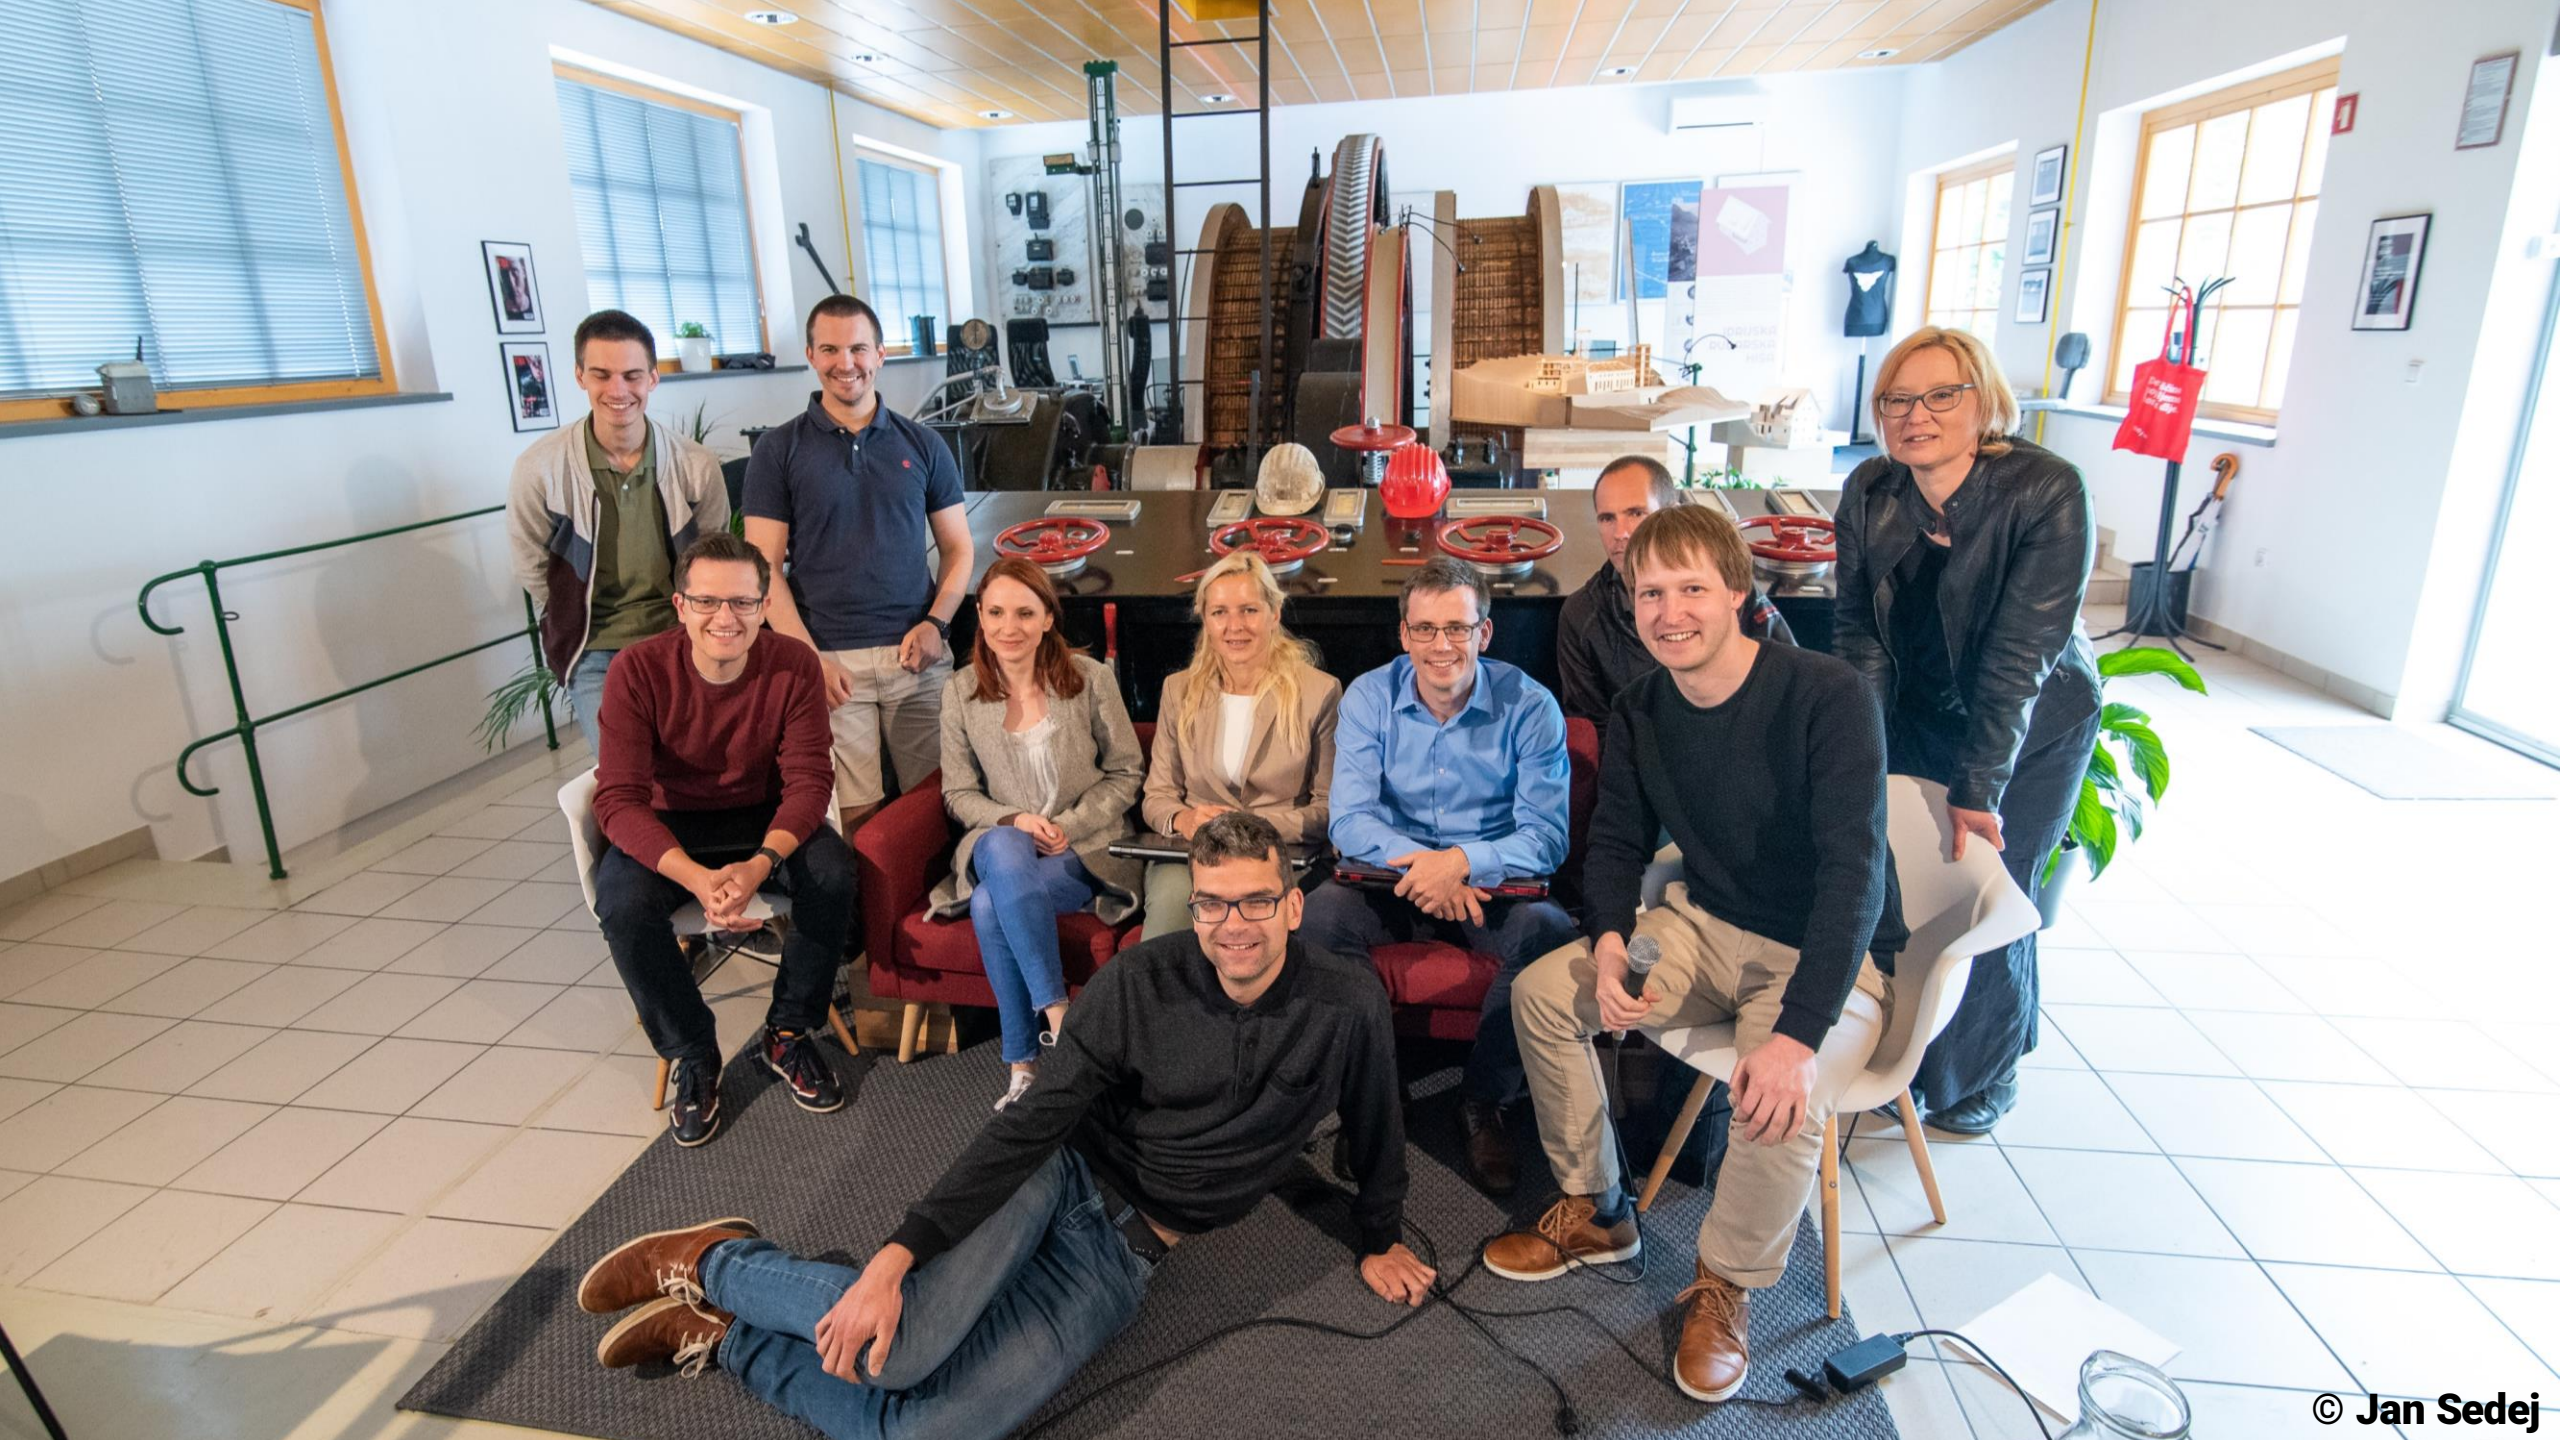

... Idrija 2020 Association team.

Idrija 2020 Association was founded in 2012 with the aim of making the local environment more youth-friendly by developing different projects and initiatives.

Our office is located in Inzaghi Shaft Engine Room in the town centre, just across the main bus station in Idrija. Additional information about our activities are available on our webpage.

Who are we looking for?

... young people between 18 and 30.

We are looking for independent and engaged young people that are interested in architecture, history, art, heritage protection or multimedia and want to achieve positive change.

Every participant will receive a daily allowance. We will cover the costs of travel and accommodation and will provide breakfast and lunch.

Discovering local heritage at one of our previous E+ projects.

What about accomodation?

... Hostel Idrija.

The accommodation for our international volunteers will be provided at Hostel Idrija, a youth hostel managed by Idrija Youth Centre.

Hostel is located 5 min walk from the historical town centre of Idrija and features an amazing view with spacious summer terrace.
