Born 13 April 1973 – Belgian

My passion and curiosity about people, about 'the living', led my personal and professional paths to different places and different countries, where I have experimented with a vast range of encounters and insightful experiences.

For about 30 years, I have been involved in the development and coordination of projects encompassing the organisation and facilitation of large-scale events, competence-based processes and material, training courses on intercultural sensitivity and communication, project management, and training for trainers, among others. I also engaged in coaching, therapy, and group dynamics.
