ABOUT ME

I'm a free-spirited human being on a journey of living an authentic life and creating a space where others can do the same. I have huge interest in creating, guiding and facilitating free-flow, semi-structured trainings that focus on well-being, personal growth and inner diversity through sharing personal stories. I am passionate about being involved in projects that promote innovative approaches to creativity, art, community building and learning. Currently I am exploring how can we turn public places into learning spaces and how can we use them to foster community building.
